THEATRE.-Last night Miss Neilson personated Viola in "Twelfth Night" to a full house of very intelligent and appreciative people. This comedy has not before been played in this city, we believe. It was herefore a new thing upon the stage, and ight merrily was it enjoyed. The sparking wit, rollicking humor, and intense love of the piece were all maintained with excellent animation and fidelity by the company. The divine author never sinks to the grade of mediocrity, and the players have to keep well their wits about them to acquit themselves with credit in the recital of his diction. When we say that the company sustaining Miss Neilson acquitted itself in a manner worthy of applause we pay it a very high tribute, and this it did.

Miss Neilson, in this her second appearance, held fast to the plaudits won on her firet introduction to the Richmond play-goers. Her reading was excellent, and her acting in the vicissitudes and contre-temps which occurred in her counterfeit personation of a male character was exquisite. She certainly is a lady of great talent and excellent ingenuity.

The audience heartily enjoyed the whole entertainment. The rollicking humor and dissipation of Sir Toby (Mr. Bailey) and his dupe (Mr. Bowers) were irresistibly amu-(Mrs. Ella Wren) was capital. The whole caused side-splitting laughter quite remarkable. The performance was uncommonly perfect in its decorum and respectabilitywith regard to both dress and address.

the Centenary Methodist church, who are indefatigable in their efforts to promote its welfare, and ever exhibiting their ingenuity and energy to raise means for its support, are getting up a new entertainment, which will prove as interesting as novel, for the purpose of raising a fund to buy an organ. It is to be held next week, on the second floor of Levy's building, and is called an Exposition of Authors. It is not to be a fair, but a kind of festival. There will be a number restaurants and confectioneries kept in structures appropriately erected, in which oung ladies and gentlemen representing characters of American, Scotch, and English authors will serve refreshments. For instance, in a picturesque castle, very handsomely built, the characters of Walter Scott will attend to the wants of the guests; in a thatched cottage those of Burns will officiate; while in a handsome English drawing-room some of the most charming and beautiful ladies of the city will hold a reception. Besides these there will be many interesting features. The entertainment will no doubt be a success.

THE LATE CASE BEFORE THE POLICE BOARD.-In the notice yesterday of the acquittal of Sergeant Wren and Policeman Sweeney by the Police Board it seems the language used has been construed as asserting that the parties arrested by these officers were attested without warrant, provoca-tion, or good excuse, and yet were acquitted by the Board. The intention was to apply the words used to the charge as made by Mr. Bevans and certified up to the by Rev. Mr. Booker. The excellent music Police Board. The Board thought the officers did have justifiable cause for the arrests, and therefore alone they acquited the officers.

Bacon and Greens"-Invitation from Mem bers of the Legislature. RICHMOND, VA., January 12, 1877. Dr. G. W. Bagby: Dear Sir,-It would give many of your friends great pleasure, and no doubt the public, to hear your lecture on "Bacon and Greens." The ball of the House of Delegates will be at your service. H. E. SMITH, Very respectfully, II. W. THOMAS, CHARLES HERNDON, and sixty others.

STATE LIBBARY, January 24, 1877.

GEORGE W. BAGEY.

Messrs. H. E. Smith, H. W. Thomas, Marshall Hanger, and others: Gentlemen,-The renewed evidence of your kindness, evinced in your invitation to deliver the lecture on "Bacon and Greens," and placing the hall of the House of Delegates at my service for that purpose awakens in me the warmest emotions. I obey your call with pleasure, and with your permission will name TUESDAY EVENING, January 30, 1877, as the time. I am, gentlemen, gratefully and respectfully your obedient servat.
